

CONVERSION RECORD IS BROKEN AT TABERNACLE LAST NIGHT AS 152 PENITENTS GO DOWN TRAIL

Sunday Preached Unusually Strong Sermon on 'The Unpardonable Sin,' and Large Audience Is Drawn to Appeal of Evangelist for Converts

Conversion records for regular Billy Sunday services were shattered last evening when 152 penitents went down the trail in response to the evangelist's invitation. The previous record was 109. Two hundred and ten conversions at a special children's meeting and almost 1,000 at a dedication service, but at no regular service have so many answered the call in one evening.

And little wonder. Billy Sunday never preached a stronger invitation sermon than when he talked on "The Unpardonable Sin." Never has he put so much force into a sermon urging repentance as he did last evening. The sermon itself was excellent. The evangelist worked up to his climax with great care and feeling. His prayer was stronger by far than usual. He finished his talk apparently until he was sure his hearers fully understood the deep significance, then he extended the invitation. He exerted unusual effort to secure converts while the invitation was being extended. It was the strongest service yet held by the evangelist and one could not but think that if sinners would not accept the gospel after hearing that sermon, they would not accept it without much argument upon hearing any other.

"I know all heaven and hell are interested in this service," Sunday said in concluding his prayer. "The devil is saying, 'Don't go down the trail.' If I hear of anything to help push them over to your side, Holy Ghost, I'll gladly do it. Oh, Lord, help the people to come." With this he extended his invitation.

Converts Rush Forward.
Almost instantly the converts started pouring down the aisles. They came faster than usual and in a far better spirit. In his sermon, Sunday had proved that but a very small percentage of people more than 30 years old accept the faith. If so, it is a shame to them in little chance of his being a Christian. He appealed to a large, realistic audience to the older people. It was noticeable, too, that many gray-haired men and women were among the converts. Perhaps one-fifth of the total number were people more than 50, the percentage being larger by far than that given by the evangelist.

Sunday called on each delegation to come as a delegation. None responded. Then he became busy shaking hands.

PURCELL GIVES POLICY IN STRIKE SITUATION

Plans Discussed by Peace Officers; Four Freight and One Passenger Train Operated Yesterday

Plans for a definite policy with regard to the strike on the Cripple Creek Short Line railroad, to be pursued by all the peace officers in El Paso county, were discussed during the continuance of the controversy, were discussed yesterday. District Attorney M. W. Purcell as a conference with Mayor McKesson, Commissioner D. G. Johnson of the department of public safety, Sheriff George Birdall and Chief of Police Edward Stark. The plans, which met with the approval of all those, who were present yesterday, will be brought up again at a meeting today, at which the county commissioners also will be present. At that time, the policy which is agreed on will be passed officially, and afterward will be held to firmly throughout the strike.

The policy proposed by Purcell is that the protecting of property must be done by the peace officers, and that the commissions as deputy sheriffs will be issued to any employees of the railroad, that the peace officers will remain strictly neutral in the controversy, that the strikers must not use the company property, and that there must be no intimidation on either side, although only without intimidation, to induce men to stop working for the railroad if they so desire. Dismissing his proposed policy, Purcell said last night:

Purcell Makes Statement.
"We don't want to see any violence here, and we don't want it to be said that any lives were lost by our negligence in protecting property. I think that the men who are on strike are all good, reputable citizens, and I think that they will not cause any trouble. I believe that they want only what they consider are their rights, and I think that both sides of the controversy will help me in what I am trying to do."
"But we don't want any repetition here of what has occurred in the south-west part of the state. If the railroad wants to operate its trains, we will protect it in doing so. All property shall be properly protected, but it must be by men by the power of the county. I must be able to think for my deputies. What men he thinks fit for his deputies to this work, and he will be responsible for the men he chooses. But the"

and had little time to urge. Many thanked him for his talk and his aid as they shook hands with him. The stream of penitents became thinner and thinner and the evangelist finally called for secretaries. But just as they began their work, the Golden Cycle delegation broke and started down the trail.
"Hurrah!" Sunday shouted. "Here they come! That's right, men. Come on, clean up, Golden Cycle. Remember, when we were over there the other day you showed us the process of separation of gold from ore, of the good from the worthless. That's just what God is doing now—separating the good from the bad. Come on!"
Perhaps half of the delegation came. Several delegations attended the service last evening. The first in was the Loyal Temperance Legion, followed closely by the W. C. T. U. The United Ribboners had a special song, "Colorado's Going Dry," and the legionnaires gave a yell all their own. The delegation ended its stunt by giving the chauntous salute.
Roady Advises Boycott.
"Hurrah!" Roady shouted. "If there is anything you people want, Mr. Sunday, to do to help you, you may rest assured he will do it. You women have power; you're a great power in this fight." And "Roady" told them a story of how the women of a Massachusetts town boycotted a fish merchant who was selling liquor and finally forced him to give up his illegitimate business. WARBURG WAVERING OVER RESERVE POST

First Declines to Accept, May Head the President's Solicitations

WASHINGTON, July 7.—With President Wilson urging Paul M. Warburg, the New York banker, to reconsider his request that his nomination as a member of the federal reserve board be withdrawn, it was reported tonight in official circles close to the White house that Mr. Warburg was wavering and there was a possibility of his changing his mind.

During the afternoon Mr. Warburg and the president's secretary, Mr. Tamm, talked over the telephone, and Mr. Warburg then expressed his determination not to take the place. Later President Wilson telegraphed, urging him strongly to reconsider his decision.

Despite opposition to Mr. Warburg in the senate, friends of the president have assured him that the New York banker's nomination can be confirmed. The president himself is said to believe that he will have a hard time finding another man as familiar with foreign banking conditions who will accept the place.

Declines to Appear.
Members of the senate banking committee were inclined today to consider that Mr. Warburg had finally eliminated himself by his refusal to appear to submit to questioning by the committee. In this message, made public soon after his announcement from the White house of the request for withdrawal of the nomination, Mr. Warburg said he felt the action of the committee in holding up his appointment and one other, while three were confirmed, would impair his usefulness as a member of the reserve board.

It was said at the Capitol if the nomination was not withdrawn, the committee in all probability would insist upon the appearance of the banker for examination concerning his business affairs and those of his firm, Kuhn, Loeb & Co.
No action has been taken by the committee on the nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, who appeared yesterday to tell of his connection with the International Harvester company. The president's inaction on confirmation and there has been no suggestion that Mr. Jones' nomination would be withdrawn.

CANADA BARS HINDUS; MUST RETURN HOME

Immigrants Are Held to Be Undesirable Citizens in British Columbia

RAISES SERIOUS QUESTION

Said to Be Plot of Wealthy East Indians to Get Firm Foothold

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 7.—British Columbia finished with one vexing problem today and it is possible another one was set for the Indian empire, when about 300 Hindus, on board the steamer Komagata Maru, abandoned their fight for admission to Canada and agreed to go back home. They have been here over a month and the Komagata Maru was especially chartered to bring them from India via Japan. Their stay has been marked by plots to assassinate the local immigration officers and by all possible legal proceedings.

They were refused permission to land because they did not come directly from India, because they did not have $200 each, required by the immigration laws, and because they were held to be common laborers liable to become public charges and hence not entitled to admission.

Plot of Wealthy Hindus.
Whether the men on the boat expected to be allowed to land or not cannot be learned definitely. Their coming is said to have been financed by wealthy Hindus unfavorable to English rule, and on the theory that if they got in, it would open the door for others and if they were excluded, what they would have to say on reaching home would not make the path of the government any more smooth. One report was that the men on the boat were picked purposely from districts known favorably for their loyalty to the British in order that disaffection might thus be spread.

Today Gurjit Singh, the leader, instructed his counsel unconditionally to arrange for the return of the Komagata Maru. The ship's owners ordered her back a week ago, but the captain dared not sail, fearing his passengers would be unruly. To Gurjit Singh's note was appended his dissent from the plan.

"I, Doctor Ragu Nath Singh, do not agree, as I belong to the nonimmigrant class."

Ford to Visit Pres. Wilson Tomorrow

HENRY FORD OF DETROIT

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Following the precedent set last week in the reception of J. P. Morgan at the White house, President Wilson tomorrow will discuss business conditions and his antitrust program with a delegation of business men representing the Chicago Association of Commerce. Thursday he will see Henry Ford, the millionaire automobile manufacturer, a committee of bankers from Illinois and a large group of supervisors of state banks from different parts of the country.

WEST MUST CHANGE ITS BANKING LAWS

Do Not Fit New Currency Conditions, Say Bankers at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—Montana, Utah, Washington and other western states must make radical changes in their banking laws before the new currency system can become generally effective, according to speakers who addressed the National Association of State Bankers at their annual convention here today. It was pointed out that the banking laws of several western commonwealths forbid the investment of the funds of state-chartered banks in stocks of any description, and this conflict between federal and state banking laws will be one of the matters taken up when the banking supervisors meet the members of the federal reserve board in Washington on Thursday.

Attacks Private Banks.

A feature of the day's session was an attack upon private banks and the laws which permitted their existence by Edward H. Doyle, banking commissioner for Michigan, in which he was supported by several others. Mr. Doyle pleaded for direct cooperation between the controller of the currency and the state banking departments to protect the public from worthless investments and banks of dubious credit.

"No one will deny that the days of the private banks are numbered," said Mr. Doyle. "Their number is steadily decreasing and in some states they have been abolished, while in others they are supervised to a greater or less extent."

"I am in favor of the supervision of the private banks only when it is as far reaching as that required of state or national banks. Such supervision would be tantamount to abolishing the business, which I strongly favor, for such banks could organize as state or national institutions."

"The abolishing of private banks will work no hardship to those that are solvent, but it will put the private banker on the verge of bankruptcy out of business."

The commissioners were agreed that legislation of the "blue sky" order should be made uniform throughout the country and that it should be made to apply only to "get rich quick" schemes and not interfere with legitimate business in high grade stocks and bonds.

Woman Police Judge Has Little Mercy on Fair Sex if They Violate the Law

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—"Woman who disobey the law should be treated just like a man," said Miss Lura Middaugh, who today acted as judge in the Kansas City, Kan., police court in the absence of Judge Brady. She was the first woman to sit on the municipal bench there.

After making this statement, she fined two women, charged with maintaining liquor nuisances, $100 and $200. She also increased the price for getting intoxicated by raising the fine from the customary $5 to $35. Miss Middaugh recently was appointed justice of the peace.

CARRANZA IS CHIEF; VILLA TO DROP ROW

Internal Quarrel Is Settled by Representatives of Both Factions

ATMOSPHERE NOW CLEARED

Rebel Money Must Be Turned Over to Rebel Agents to Whom Consigned

TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, July 7.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza has been recognized as first chief of the constitutional revolution, and Gen. Francisco Villa is subordinate to him. This confirmation of the relative positions of Carranza and Villa was regarded as the most important step taken at the internal peace pact here intended to reunite the Villa and Carranza factions.

In settling this point, the question of supplying the division of the north which Villa commands with coal and ammunition probably will find an amicable solution. For while General Villa owes Carranza absolute subordination, Carranza, on the other hand, is obliged to meet the wants of the Villa troops. The conference is ended so far as vital points are concerned. The statement was made today that the results of the meetings were satisfactory.

Villa's Position

General Villa said today: "I hope that the outcome of the conference will be beneficial to Mexico and that the patriotic motives will cause the compact to be kept."
Villa had little to say on the election held last Sunday in the territory controlled by Huachuapilco. He said it was a matter of secondary importance, and an attempt to "wash out" one stain with another.

It is not the practice of men to buzz around like mosquitoes and sting others when they least expect it, said Villa in referring to accusations of misconduct made against him by Carranza followers along the border. "I am averse to personalities," he added.

While the conference was in session, brigades of the northern division were being sent north through Torreón to go into quarters in the country districts of Chihuahua. In these districts the cavalry horses will recuperate from the hard campaigns of Purdon and (Continued on Page Two.)

MEXICAN WAR SOON MAY BE CONCLUDED

Huerta and Carranza Delegates Expected Soon to Get Together

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Reports tonight from Torreón that the peace conference between representatives of General Carranza and General Villa had ended last night and that the difference in the Constitutional ranks had been adjusted satisfactorily served to encourage officials of the Washington government, and Constitutional agents here who are hopeful that mediation of the Mexican imbroglio soon may be successfully concluded.

"Had it not been for the differences which arose between General Carranza and General Villa," said Mr. Naon, the Argentine minister, tonight, "I think the whole Mexican situation might have been settled before this. With the trouble of the Constitutionalists settled, I think that we will hear encouraging news from General Carranza soon."

Rebel Agents Confer

Constitutionalist Agents Rafael Zubaran, Luis Cabrera, Fernando Iglesias Calderon and Leopoldo Hurtado Espinoza conferred at length today with Charles A. Douglas, legal representative of General Carranza in Washington, after the latter had talked with Secretary Bryan over future plans of mediation. None would discuss the details of this conference but Mr. Douglas made this statement:

"I have every reason to believe that the trouble between Villa and Carranza are settled, that delegates from the Constitutionalists will be named to meet with Huerta delegates to discuss the formation of a provisional government in Mexico. Though there are many reports to the contrary, there are many matters of great importance involved which will have a bearing on the situation and which are not to be overlooked."

Fundist Talks of Mutiny

The mutiny which has broken out among Mexican federal soldiers near American outpost at Vera Cruz was a subject of keen interest in American official quarters and several messages on the subject were received by General Funston, who reported that fighting between the federalists and mutineers was in progress.

Gen. Evans Is Asked to Explain Speech

BRIGADIER GENERAL ROBERT K. EVANS

WASHINGTON, July 7.—President Wilson has ordered an investigation of a speech reported to have been made by Brigadier General Robert K. Evans before members of the Sons of the American Revolution in New York, to the effect that the United States was a "quiescent nation," and that the country needed a greater army, and is said to have called the Monroe doctrine "Pandora's box."

When asked about it, General Evans said that his speech had been misinterpreted.

OIL SPOUTS 50 FT. FROM DE BEQUE WELL

Drillers Strike Big Flow of Oil and Gas Adjoining Springs Operators

A great flow of both oil and gas was encountered in the Lloyd well in the DeBeque fields yesterday when the drill penetrated the "oil" oil, said Workmen were unaware that they were so close to the pocket and were not prepared for the strong flow that immediately followed.

Gas and oil shot high into the air, the gas caught fire and the derrick and other equipment was burned before the fire could be extinguished. Drilling tools and other foreign matter dropped down into the casing, but even with this mass of obstruction the oil continues to shoot 50 feet in the air.

News of the strike was sent to Colorado Springs yesterday afternoon and added to the enthusiasm of local men who several months ago organized the Grand Valley oil company, which is now prospecting in the DeBeque field. The Lloyd well adjoins one being driven by the local company, and yesterday's strike merely strengthened the conviction of its officers and stockholders that they are drilling in the right place.

"The company driving the Lloyd well has struck it," said an official of the Grand Valley company last night, "and there is no doubt in my mind that we will encounter oil in equally large quantities just as soon as we reach the proper depth. Our formation is about 200 feet higher than that of the Grand River company and on this basis, and from all indications, we should strike oil about 1,500 feet down. We have reached a depth of 1,465 feet and expect to drill into the first oil sand with a little more depth. The depth of the Lloyd well is about 2,100 feet."

Charles T. Fertig, president of the Grand Valley company, left for DeBeque last night, and his reports from the oil field will be awaited with interest by those who are identified with the company.

Oil and gas experts who have examined the DeBeque field declare that it does not differ from others in the United States, and that the oil thus far obtained is of an excellent grade. In the opinion of these experts, the small oil well is the big money maker, because gushers soon play out and break the market temporarily.

SUFFRAGE FAILS BY ONE VOTE IN GEORGIA HOUSE

ATLANTA, Ga., July 7.—Suffrage for women failed of a favorable report in the Georgia house of representatives today by one vote. The house committee on constitutional amendments decided five to four to report adversely a bill giving women the right to the ballot in state and county elections.

DR. JORDAN TO BE THE NEXT N. E. A. HEAD

Dr. Johnson Withdraws and Selection Will Be Made Unanimous Tomorrow

OAKLAND GETS NEXT MEET

Suffragists Win Victory in Obtaining Greater Share in Considerations

ST. PAUL, July 7.—The unanimous election of Dr. David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford university to the presidency of the National Education association, one of the most coveted positions in the educational world, was assured tonight when Dr. David H. Johnson of Rockhill, S. C., suddenly withdrew from the contest, thereby terminating one of the most active political campaigns in the history of the association.

Dr. Johnson's action followed a long conference with a large number of his supporters, who claimed a majority of the votes of the nominating committee for their candidate. The election will take place Thursday.

Several of the leading educators express relief and satisfaction over the withdrawal of Dr. Johnson, and they claim that the action precluded any possible dissension in the ranks of the association.

Meet in Oakland Next Year

It was also authoritatively announced that there would be no opposition to the selection of Oakland, Cal., as the meeting place next year and that the convention would be held in August, the exact date yet to be decided upon.

In announcing his withdrawal, Dr. Johnson stated that he was "a deeply grateful to my loyal and enthusiastic friends for the splendid support they have given me for the presidency of the National Education association and for having secured to me the security of the majority of votes of the nominating committee."

"Having been convinced, however, that at this time the best interests of the N. E. A. would be promoted and emphasis given to several great principles for the advancement of which I have so long labored, by the election of Dr. David Starr Jordan as president of the association, I gladly relinquish my personal ambition for what I trust is a worthy ambition to serve in a better way at this time the association that I have tried to hard to serve faithfully for more than 20 years. I ask my loyal friends to join me in making the nomination of Dr. Jordan unanimous."

Suffragists Win Victory

Suffragists won a measure of success today when the resolutions committee agreed to report to the general session of the association a resolution approving women's suffrage and equal pay for teachers regardless of sex. The committee will make its report probably next Thursday.

Women delegates were highly elated over the action of the resolutions committee and pointed out that as women delegates are in the majority at the convention there is little doubt as to the passage of the suffrage resolution, which will be presented as the beginning of a "peace movement" within the convention.

The resolutions committee also announced that in view of the stand the association has taken on international (Continued on Page Two.)

ROOSEVELT BACK IN GAME AGAIN TODAY

To Confer With Progressive Leaders in New York on Political Outlook

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 7.—Theodore Roosevelt will emerge tomorrow from the seclusion of Sagamore Hill, where he has been shutting himself up for a week, in obedience to his doctor's orders, and again take up active political work. Early in the day his son Archie is to take him by automobile to New York for a meeting at Progressive headquarters with the state leaders.

The selection of a nominee for governor is to be brought up again in the hope of deciding whether Colonel Roosevelt will run. It was believed tonight, however, that no settlement of the question tomorrow would be possible. Colonel Roosevelt has not yet learned whether he will be physically able to make the campaign.

Another complication which probably will delay matters is the recent prohibition of the Progressives and Independent Democrats cooperate. Colonel Roosevelt is expected to tell his associates the result of his recent talk on the political situation, with Mayor Mitchell of New York and to give his views on the feasibility of attempting a coalition in the state campaign.

Skeletons Furnish Mystery for Eastonville
Believed to Be Those of Federal Soldiers

The skeletons of three men were found Saturday near Eastonville, buried in unmarked graves, where they had lain, apparently, for half a century. The existence of the graves had remained unknown to people who have lived in that region for 24 years, and who the men were probably never will be definitely known. The graves may have been those of three soldiers who perished in a blizzard the night of April 30, 1846, but this is the only explanation which has been suggested for the presence of the skeletons where they were found, and may not be the true one.

Edward Hildreth of Iowa, who formerly lived in Colorado Springs, and who is now visiting in Eastonville, discovered the skeletons. The graves were near the line between the Ayers and Hobbs ranches, a few rods west of the house of Richard Ayers. There was little to serve in identification, but the few things found were in an excellent state of preservation. The shoes on two of the skeletons were well preserved even to the laces. In the pockets of some clothing on one of the skeletons were found some old sulphur matches and a handkerchief still in a fair state of preservation. A bandage was wrapped around the head of one of the skeletons.

Skeletons Reburied.
The skeletons afterwards were reburied in the graves from which they had been taken. Richard Ayers, near whose house they were found, has lived in that district for 24 years, but did not know before of the existence of the graves. It was Ayers, however, who first suggested the explanation that the skeletons may be those of three soldiers. He had heard a story that in the early days some soldiers perished in that neighborhood during a fierce snow storm, and thought that possibly the graves Hildreth discovered might have been theirs.

Irving Howbert, when told the story last night, confirmed that explanation. He gave it as his opinion that the graves are those of the soldiers. The story of their death, as Howbert told it, is as follows:

CONVERSION RECORD BROKEN LAST NIGHT
WHEN 152 PENITENTS GO DOWN TRAIL

"Just boycott them," he advised. "You'll win."

The city and county officials were present in a delegation. "Rody" made his usual funny talk to them, concluding with a prayer. "I hope you people ever since you found out what a good ball player your mayor is."

The Golden Circle mail delegation requested two-one-five when "Rody" asked them for their favorite song. "All right," the chorister responded. "Let everybody sing two-one-five. Wait a minute. Two-one-five. That's two hundred fifteen, isn't it? Everything sing etc."

Mrs. Taylor's Bible class of girls also attended in a body, as did the doctors, dentists, druggists and nurses. "Rody" had a few good stories for their special benefit.

Sermon Unusually Good.
Sunday's sermon was one of the few he has worked out along logical lines. He usually drifts away from his text as he preaches, but Sunday night he did not. He held them down, as a recognized method in writing and delivering his sermons. Last night he did.

"Three classes hold three different opinions of what constitutes the sin against the Holy Ghost," he said in beginning. "Some think only those who saw and heard Jesus Christ could commit it. Others think it is committed today, but only at rare intervals. Still others think they have committed it and go around in fear of punishment all their lives."

Then the evangelist told what he intended to talk on: to bring out a thing he seldom does. He said he intended to answer three questions. What is it? How does it show itself? Who can commit it? Why did you not forgive it?

The sin against the Holy Ghost is neither swearing, drunkenness, adultery, theft or murder, according to Sunday. It is plain and simple: the constant, continued and final rejection of Jesus Christ as the Savior. It is no specified sin or form of sin, he said. Any sin may cause it. It is no one glaring act, but a constant repetition of one sin while God's spirit is calling to you to forsake it.

Anyone Can Commit It.
"Who can commit it? I used to think only the vilest man or woman could. But Jesus gave his warning to the Pharisees, the highest morally and intellectually in his day. So anyone can commit it," the evangelist said.

"The Holy Spirit hasn't blood," the evangelist said a moment later. "The Holy Spirit takes a sermon you have just heard and with it convinces you that you should forsake your sin. It takes the combined efforts of the Trinity to keep you out of hell. God, the Father, to provide the plan of salvation; the Holy Spirit to convict; Jesus Christ to redeem you through his blood. So sin is no trifling."

The unpardonable sin shows itself in many ways, two of which the evangelist spoke of—bitter malignancy and utter indifference. The latter he said is one reason for infidelity. The history of infidelity shows that the majority of the infidels at one time were professing Christians but broke away.

A Sunday roundly scored so-called deathbed repentances.

"A deathbed confession is like burning the candle at both ends and blowing the smoke in the face of Jesus Christ," he said. "I think one of the most contemptible, miserable, good-for-nothing, low-down, unmanly and unwomanly things that you could do is to keep your life in your own control until the last moment and then wince and cry and try to creep into the kingdom of heaven on account of the long suffering and mercy of Jesus."

Daughter Weds an Hour Before He Is Arrested on Embezzling Charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 7.—Samuel W. Wilbitt, city controller and prominent in Louisville club and social circles, was arrested late today charged with embezzlement of city funds, following a report by expert accountants that they have discovered a shortage of approximately $14,500 in the controller's office.

Wilbitt is alleged to have confessed that since 1911 he has been taking contractors' bonds, deposited in the city treasury as security, and securing loans on them for his personal use. Bonds to the amount of $14,500 are reported missing from the treasury. Wilbitt used the loans, according to his alleged admissions, in an effort to recoup financial losses in lumber deals.

An hour prior to Wilbitt's arrest, his daughter was married to a prominent society man of this city, who, upon hearing of Wilbitt's troubles, insisted that the wedding, announced for next fall, should take place immediately.

CARRANZA IS CHIEF; VILLA IO DROP ROW

Zacatecas. Coupled with this movement is the desire to maintain the army more economically. Food and forage have reached tremendous prices and, since General Villa's purchasing agents buy at current quotations, it amounts to a loss to the army. Most of the army will be concentrated near Chihuahua City until the advance on Mexico City is resumed.

Amesbury Cleared.

EL PASO, Tex., July 7.—The air was cleared today between the Carranza and Villa factions. The conferences at Torreon to adjust the differences between the two Constitutional leaders evidently resulted in at least a temporary adjustment of the trouble which had threatened to wreck the success of the revolution.

The report emanating from good authority, reached here tonight that the adjustment of internal difficulties at Torreon had been forced, to a large degree, by strong recommendations from the Washington government. The feeling between Carranza and Villa men had become too keen, it was believed, to have resulted in an amicable arrangement without some external pressure.

General Villa, although reiterating that the mediation conference at Torreon had been a success, began sending practically all of his troops north. This did not indicate that his heretofore successful efforts against the federalists would be resumed soon.

Villa to Return North.

Villa himself was expected to leave soon for Chihuahua City, later visiting Juarez on the border here. George C. Carothers, special representative of the department of state at Washington, will accompany him. Mr. Carothers recently visited General Carranza, returning to the capital, where he understood here that he had presented the Washington government's recommendations that the internal quarrel of the Constitutionalists should be abandoned as a matter of supreme importance to the welfare of the revolution.

The principal point at discussion was arranged amicably today. It involved a concession by the Villa element in returning the constitutional national funds confiscated at Juarez and those made available by the United States. General Carranza today telegraphed Alberto Paul, one of his agents here, that the Villa people had agreed to turn over the money. Lazaro de la Garza, Villa's agent here, received orders from his chief to deliver the funds. Within a few days $500,000 pesos in flat paper, and $40,000 in American gold currency will be turned over to Paul by de la Garza.

Miss Saxe Predicts 100 Bible Classes

"We will have at least 100 neighborhood Bible classes before this campaign closes," Miss Grace Saxe told newspapermen last night.

Friday night 75 had been organized at the Bible class meeting at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon. 22 more were reported and Miss Saxe expects to organize another class today.

The women of Colorado Springs are displaying about as much interest in the neighborhood classes as the high school girls are in their class. Miss Saxe declared. "It is simply marvelous. I didn't dare hope for such excellent results. These classes are the promise of doing an excellent work in the coming months."

The largest class reported has 40 members on its rolls.

"That number is too large," Miss Saxe says. "From experience I know that classes of 10 to 20 do much better work. I am going to advise to break the larger classes up into several small ones. I know they can do better."

It has been decided that each class chairman will make a written report each week to Mrs. H. B. Melton, general chairman for the region. A form has been decided upon, giving attendance, prayers, requests, study, etc. In this way a complete record of all the Bible study work done in the Pike Peak region can be had any time.

Mrs. Frank Coffin is assistant general chairman and Mrs. W. C. Robinson in leader of leaders.

Meetings of the neighborhood classes will be held each week.

Miss Saxe will finish all class leaders and chairmen Friday afternoon for final instructions.

PURCELL GIVES POLICY IN STRIKE SITUATION

men who are policing the company's property must not receive any pay from the railroad. The engineers will not be allowed to carry cash. If they need protection in making their runs, proper men will be sent along to protect them.

"There will be absolutely no partiality in the peace officers. Our view in policing will be strictly not to interfere in the contention. We will not take one side to down the other."

Several of the mines in the Cripple Creek district were closed yesterday. This was not because of the lack of coal, but because of their inability to obtain cars in which to ship their ore.

The facilities at the mines for storing the ore are not sufficient for continued production and when the mines were unable to obtain cars for their ore, they were forced to close for a short time.

Two switching crews are now working in the district and two at this end of the line. Officials of the Short Line said last night that the regular passenger train would be run to the district and return today and that two freight trains taking merchandise and empty cars would go to the district and return with ore.

TRANSATLANTIC AVIATORS REJECT LIFE PRESERVERS

Bodies Never Would Be Found Floating on Surface of Ocean, They Say

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., July 7.—Lieutenant Porte, pilot of the transatlantic flying boat America, today declined a pair of life preservers proffered by Lieut. Samuel Preston, who makes them for the navy aviators at Pensacola.

"If the America is wrecked," said Porte, "they'll never find two bodies floating on the ocean."

Porte seems to be satisfied that the start will be made within a few days. He arrived here today accompanied by Rodman Wamsamaker's brother-in-law, Frederick Cruger, and by Capt. Creagh Osborne of the British admiralty.

Porte spent some time in a motor boat adjusting the compass. He is in use on the transatlantic flight and setting it in place in the bow of the big flying boat.

Glenn Curtiss had the America out today to observe the effect of the hydroplane in its fitting to the bottom of the boat. He and Lieutenant Porte are agreed that they can get away with the necessary load by resorting to auxiliary pontoons and Mr. Curtiss wishes to work the problem out in a scientific manner. He will devote several more days if necessary to setting the plane just right.

Lieutenant Porte is impatient to get started and if the hydroplanes do not work out properly very soon it is probable the attempts will be used.

Muerta May Not Escape.
Reporting his refusal of this request, the general said no incidents had been reported from the outposts. He added that trains had made the trip back and forth between Temblade Ras and Vera Cruz. Passengers estimated that the force engaged in quelling the mutiny numbered 500. Lieut. General Funston thought the number was exaggerated.

Officials here see danger for General Huerta should the mutiny cut off his means for an exit from Mexico City. His early departure is assumed in official circles, but if the mutineers triumph in their present uprising, it is pointed out that Huerta and his followers could scarcely expect safe conduct to the gulf coast through the enemy's lines.

A new comer joined the ranks of the Constitutionalists in Washington tonight. He is Vito Arellano Robles, a staunch adherent of General Villa, who came direct from Torreon to look particularly after the interests of the fighting general in the American capital.

JUDGE KINNEY BACK FROM EASTERN TRIP

Studied Conditions First Hand Concerning Compensation Acts

Although those in Colorado Springs who have been directing relief under the mothers' compensation act feared at first that they might be giving too much help, in reality the payments made here have been only about half as high as those which are made in the east, particularly in New York and Chicago, under similar circumstances.

This is the report of County Judge W. P. Kinney, who has spent a month in the east in a study of juvenile courts and the courts which administer relief under mothers' compensation acts. Judge Kinney returned to Colorado Springs Sunday night. As a result of his investigation, he says, he has come to the conclusion that the line may have been drawn a little too tight in the cases which have come up here.

The mothers' compensation act has been in operation only about a year, and with few cases coming up, there has been little precedent here for the manner of granting relief under it. Judge Kinney made his trip east for the purpose of studying the methods in New York and Chicago and learning the basis of granting relief there. The courts in those cities, he said yesterday, have a far greater field for information than have the local courts, and the methods he observed will be of great value to him in his work in this county.

Although the next legislature probably will pass such a measure, the state of New York has as yet no mothers' compensation act. In New York city, however, he inspected the work of the Charity Organization society, which takes care of the relief which would be administered under such a law. He also studied the work of the New York city juvenile court. In Chicago he spent a great deal of time in Judge Pinckney's court, which is the principal court in the United States in granting relief under mothers' compensation acts, and which is the greatest juvenile court in the country.

Judge Kinney will report on his eastern trip to the board which he has selected to aid him in considering the granting of relief under the Colorado law, and the board will consider it in connection with the local situation. The Colorado act, Judge Kinney said yesterday, has been working with the utmost satisfaction. Under it, he says, the county is no longer compelled to take away the children of widowed mothers and send them to the state home for dependent children, but can leave them at home. "This is a most important thing," he said, "in the case of such children." He said, instead of criminals, as the old one did.

In granting relief, Judge Kinney already is using the $2,500 which the county commissioners have placed at his disposal for this purpose. After he has reported to his board of advisers, they probably will make recommendations and requests to the county commissioners with regard to the further needs of the court for this work.

News of the Courts

The suit of Mrs. Maud Benson vs. the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company, a suit for $1,500 damages for alleged personal injuries, was commenced yesterday in the district court. Mrs. Benson sustained the injuries by falling into an irrigation ditch which crosses the road under the street car tracks near the Zoo. She claims that the company should have covered the ditch at the point where it can under their tracks, that it was negligent in not doing so, and that it is liable for her injuries. The company claims that it does not own the ditch and has nothing to do with it.

Collections of $25 in fines and fees in criminal cases, were made in Justice O. R. Dunnington's court during the months of April, May and June, according to the regular quarterly report of Constable Charles M. Hobbs, which was presented to the county commissioners yesterday. So far as the report is concerned, that is the largest amount collected in the criminal division of the court in any one quarter in its history.

Police Magistrate Manning yesterday morning fined J. R. Bradley $10 for speeding. He also fined H. G. Sinton $5 for violating the automobile light ordinance, and E. F. Turner and J. J. Gibson $10 each for violating the dog ordinance, but suspended the three fines.

SWISS TUNNEL FLOODED BY BREAK; MANY MAROONED

BRIGUE, Switzerland, July 7.—The Simplon tunnel was inundated today by a subterranean stream which burst through the retaining wall and flooded the tube to a depth of two feet. A train was derailed but no one was hurt. A large number of American tourists were stalled at Brig and Domodossola. Many of them telephoned for automobiles and crossed the pass, while others were stranded by way of the pass of St. Gotthard. It is hoped traffic can be resumed tomorrow.

BILLY SUNDAY HOLDS FIRST MEN'S MEETING

800 at Princess Theater to Hear Evangelist Preach Short Sermon

More than 800 men heard Billy Sunday in the Princess theater yesterday at his first men's meeting for business men. The crowd was even larger than had been expected at the first service, and it is practically certain that the house will be packed at the other meetings to be held today.

The meetings will be held tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, provided the men desire. Because Sunday already had made arrangements to go to Calhan this morning, the Rev. K. F. Peacock will conduct the service today. The meetings will begin promptly at 12 o'clock and end not later than 12:45. Sunday will start preaching at 12:15, so merchants may arrive that late without fear of missing any of the sermon. The time will be observed to the minute, Sunday believing in punctuality more than any other one thing. He also realizes that the business men have certain hours for work and intends to work with them in all things.

Audience Enthusiastic

Chorister Homer A. Rodeheaver led the 15-minute song service before the preaching yesterday and the men joined in the singing with a spirit. It is noticeable that at meetings for men only there seems to be more enthusiasm than in any of the other services. In closing the song service, "Boddy" said:

"This is the finest motion picture theater I ever saw. We certainly appreciate the opportunity for holding our services in it and we want to thank Mr. Tompkins for so generously giving it to us. You men ought to thank him, too. Just go to him personally and tell him how glad you are for his consideration." Sunday echoed the remarks and in his closing prayer again brought up the subject by saying: "Lord, thank you for the kindness shown by the manager of the Princess who said: 'Yes, come right in and use the house; we're glad to have you; glad that we can be of some service to you. Thank you, Lord, for that.'"

Sunday spoke on "Ourselves." The subject is one in which everyone is most interested, he explained, in beginning his sermon. "There are men and there are men who are not men," he said. "The latter class simply have the frames of men. They look good across the street, but oh, when you get close to them, they are men simply because they wear chin whiskers. If they would dress in hobble skirts they would look just like women."

Likes Real Men

When I think of those things, I thank God for so many men who are real men. It's greater to be a real man than to be an angel, I think. Why, see how man has turned this old world upside down. He has a right to be cheery. But he couldn't do anything when he came into the world. He was helpless. Even the animals were better fixed. They had fur and hides to keep them warm, and they knew how to secure food and shelter. Man didn't. Sunday told in length of what man has accomplished. How he has conquered the elements, how he has invented inventions of necessity and convenience. How he has grown. Then he said:

"But man is weak, even today. He is weak and still is weak. Man is not yet master. He rides by in his limousine, dressed in the most costly garments and with what he almost thinks is the world at his back and call and seems to say: 'I am master. But God is master.' And the evangelist told the story of the Titanic. He told of what a great vessel it was, how complete in every detail, how man had called it perfect. Then he told how God had formed the iceberg and sent it down, how it had struck the ship, how it had ripped the hull, how the big steamer from bow to stern, how it sank a man compared to God."

All Need God

"What does man need? Wealth? We're the richest nation on the globe. Power? God has given it to us in such quantities that we are not afraid of any nation or group of nations. Our old Stars and Stripes has never been dipped. Liberty? Long and glorious has been our history. What we need above everything else is faith in the atoning power of the blood of Jesus Christ. There is not a second of time that man can live without it. Look at his hand and see who are life's victors. Men need Jesus for this reason:

"The Sunday broke into his prayer. 'Lord, bless the fellows here, today. They have dropped their business for a moment to rush in here and hear the gospel. Help him, Lord, when they go back to their stores and employment. They shouldn't forget the Lord. They may have everything else, but they are lost without you, Jesus. And help us, Jesus, not to forget when we have the Lord.'"

"Have you the Lord?" he asked ending his prayer abruptly. "For what shall I profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? That's my text. Well, good-by, fellows." And, waving his hand, he left the platform.

Just before Sunday began to preach about 35 street car men, in uniform, marched into the theater and took front seats. Yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock Billy Sunday spoke to pioneers at the home of Mrs. W. W. Price, president of the El Paso County Pioneer society, 215 South Nevada avenue. The meeting was attended by more than 200 old residents of the city and many of them were brought to and from the meeting in automobiles donated for the purpose.

The evangelist was accompanied only by his wife, who led a short song service at the beginning of the meeting. He took for his text, "The Life of King David," a truth that each must fill his own place as he alone can fill that place to the best advantage. A prayer meeting was also held yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. F. W. Goddard. Homer A. Rodeheaver

CHURCHES REDOUBLING EFFORTS IN CAMPAIGN

Many Working to Make Revival Most Successful Ever Held in Entire West

With the last week of the Sunday campaign started, the churches of the Pikes Peak region are redoubling their efforts to make the revival the greatest ever held not only in this city but in the entire west. Everything that can possibly aid in the work is being done.

Many of the churches held meetings Monday and yesterday to better organize their own personal workers. This phase of the work was not so well organized in the beginning of the campaign as was desired, but the ministers hope to perfect it during the last few days.

BILLY SUNDAY IMITATES HIGH SALARIED SOLOIST

Charles Marsh of Pueblo, who has written many religious songs, attended the services last evening. Immediately after the sermon, Chorister Rodeheaver led the choir in "Is It the Crowning Day?" one of Marsh's songs. The Puebloan playing the accompaniment. Later "Boddy" asked Marsh to play something for the choir.

"Come on," Rodeheaver urged as Marsh refused. "Why, Mr. Arkley and Mr. Sunday here will sing a duet, too, turning to the evangelist and his pianist who were seated on the steps facing the choir."

Sunday jumped to his feet and gave a screaming imitation of the high-salaried church soloist without a heart he so often speaks of, then turned to Arkley to select a duet. But Arkley played piker and Sunday left with an air of disgust.

Afterward Marsh played for the members of the choir. ITALIAN ELECTIONS MARKED BY VIOLENCE. ROME, July 7.—Violence marked the elections for city and provincial councils which have been going on throughout Italy the last few days. In the constituency where Prince Borghese was a candidate, a serious riot took place in which one man was killed and another seriously injured.

Five Cities Give Billy Sunday $107,500 Springs to Be Heard From Next Sunday

The Rev. Merle N. Smith, pastor of the First M. E. church, who has been ill almost since the Sunday campaign began, reappeared at the tabernacle last evening and greeted his long-time friend, Billy Sunday. Incidentally, Smith told the audience at his trip through Iowa and of what the people in one of the towns in which he had conducted a campaign several years ago said about the evangelist and the results of his work. He told the crowd that the people of that town thought no sum was too great to give Sunday for his work and he asked them to govern themselves next Sunday accordingly.

The total offerings for Sunday in the five campaigns conducted during this year has been $107,500. Sunday invariably sets aside 10 per cent of all he earns for a fund for the Lord, a fund from which he draws to assist in worthy religious enterprises. He also pays in part the salaries of his large party, every member of which is a topnotcher. The evangelist asks no guarantee, he simply takes what is given on the last day of his campaign.

What Others Have Done. The meetings held by Sunday this season, together with the amounts contributed in the free-will offerings and

SUNDAY TELLS SPRINGS PEOPLE HE LIKES THEM

"You know, I like you people," Billy Sunday made the statement rather suddenly yesterday afternoon after standing at his pulpit watching the crowd for several moments. He spoke in the most friendly and informal spirit, laying stress on the "like" and with a rising inflection on the last word.

"Yes, I like you awfully well. For three weeks I thought you were the coldest, most frigid bunch I ever saw. And you were. But I've grown to like you."

"I know what you thought of me. Scores of people have come to me since I have been here and begged my pardon for the opinions they held before I came to Colorado Springs. They told me they believed the lies that were circulated about me. Those people are big. It takes a big and worth while man to do that."

"What you heard about me can't beat what I heard about you, though. However, I have come to disbelieve about 99 1/2 per cent of what I hear about people and communities. All that I heard about you was a lie—I've been more than convinced since coming here. So you see it pays not to believe what you hear—that is, things derogatory." And with this Sunday spoke of what he expected during the last few days of the campaign, what crowds, what work, what results. He did not speak definitely. But his words showed that he is looking forward to great days during this week.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED

C. J. Wellington, a resident at the Printers' home who came here last January from Canton, O., came to the Colorado Springs and Interurban railway company's depot at Stoughton park shortly after 1 o'clock Monday night, waiting on his shoes and a raincoat, and said that he had been held up and robbed on Mt. Canon by two men dressed as cowboys. According to his story, he was climbing the mountain when the two men stopped him, covered him with revolvers, robbed him of his money, about $5, and then stripped him of his clothing. He finally persuaded them to give back his raincoat and his shoes, he said. Wellington was taken to the Printers' home in a carriage which was sent to Stoughton park for him. The robbery has not been reported to the police or to the sheriff.

TELLS EAST ABOUT COLORADO SPRINGS

Colorado Springs received more publicity in the east last Friday through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, when William Quackenbush, son of Peter Quackenbush of this city, gave an interesting stereopticon lecture on Colorado Springs with a half a hundred slides prepared by the Chamber of Commerce, to the employees of the Quackenbush store in Paterson, N. J.

The following is taken from an article in the Paterson Call: "Mr. Quackenbush is familiar with all points here and about Colorado Springs and his anecdotes and descriptions aided greatly in bringing before the audience the beauty of the western state. The audience was delighted with the lecture and extended a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Quackenbush at its close."

What the Press Agents Say

THE BURNS

The unusually fine staging of "The Ghost Breaker," the current play at the Burns is far ahead of the usual staging given stock productions, and the audiences who have admired the remarkable staging of many of the Burns plays may be interested to know that on a "heavy show," such as "The Ghost Breaker," unlimited money for scenic equipment, careful attention to detail, and experienced and expert direction on the part of the scenic artists, stage carpenters, stage manager, and director, can result in a production that is staged even better than the original production could hope to do on road tours.

In "The Ghost Breaker" the first scene is a rather elaborate bedroom of a modern New York hotel; the second act shows the interior of a first cabin state room on a big ocean liner; an inn in Spain in the third act is built up for this one act and for this one play, followed in the last act, the fourth, by the banquet hall of a Spanish castle.

Careful and artistic staging does much to insure the success of any production, although the time and money put into the staging of one play like "The Ghost Breaker" would outfit a road company for a season or two.

Irrespective of the rattling good action, the tense situations, and the wealth of comedy which "The Ghost Breaker" affords, the staging is such as to win the surprise and admiration from the theatergoer who understands the time and effort necessary in preparing a play for a week of stock.

It is obviously impossible to effect as quick a change of scenes in a stock production as it attained in a road show only after weeks of practice, yet after the opening night, the seats here, the actors are always materially lessened. This year, the Burns curtain has so far been on time at the opening of each performance, a remarkable record when the difficulties of new staging each week are considered.

EMPRESS

"The Harlow Handicap" in at the Empress today.

Upon the death of his father, Harry Allen found himself the owner of a racing stable with but very little money to maintain it. George Carnes, who served the Allen family as trainer for many years, does his best to run the stable on the limited amount of money which Allen has left, but finds it a difficult task.

Because of his financial difficulties, young Allen hesitates to ask Carnes' daughter, Mignon, to enter into an engagement with him. Arthur Mower, a bookmaker, takes advantage of the situation to press his attentions upon the younger, prettier daughter. Mignon requires the bookmaker and incurs his enmity.

Mower determines to make off with the fastest racer in Allen's stables. Possessed of inside information, he is aware that Allen's racer has an excellent chance of winning the Harlow Handicap. He engages two men to spirit off the horse.

Carnes and Allen discover this would-be thieves in the stable and overpower them. In the fight between the men, however, a lantern is upset and the barn takes fire. Carnes and Allen lead out two horses, neither of which proves to be the favorite. Worth out by their efforts both men sink down exhausted. Mignon arrives on the scene in time, however, and brings out Allen's racer just as the roof of the burning barn crashes in.

Allen's horse wins the handicap and soon after Mower's confederates confess their share in the attempted theft. Mower is arrested and sent to prison. Harry, his financial troubles ended, announces his engagement to Mignon.
